

In accordance with the CTEP Project Agreement and upon completion of the terms of said agreement technology issued to you will become your personal property. Should you fail to complete the terms of the agreement for ANY reason the technology will become the sole property of your school.

The Chicago Teacher Education Pipeline™ Programs & Partnerships is not responsible for any loss or damage to the technology awarded to you. Extended warranties and service plans are available through the store or manufacturer and may be purchased by the user at the user's expense. The Chicago Teacher Education Pipeline will not cover the cost of any extended warranties/service agreements, maintenance, repairs or replacement for the technology issued to you.

Part or all of your payment may be taxable, and you should seek the advice and guidance of a tax advisor who is familiar with all the relevant facts. Individuals' specific circumstances and situations can differ regarding this transaction. This advice is general in nature and is not intended as tax advice. You should maintain a record of all your payments and transactions. You can also reference IRS Publication 970, Tax Benefits for Education.

I agree to allow my representative to accept the technology on my behalf if circumstances prevent me from accepting it in person. I have read and understood the above statements, as well as the CTEP Project Agreement, and agree to use the technology as outlined above.
